

Office Based Surgery Accreditation

BREADTH
+ DEPTH

A new patient safety law took effect January 14, 2008, that requires New York State physician practices that perform office-based surgical procedures to achieve accreditation. Is your office-based surgery practice ready for accreditation? Physician practices must become accredited on or before July 14, 2009.

BESLER Consulting can assist your practice in achieving accreditation through Accreditation Association for Ambulatory Health Care or The Joint Commission.

Our services include:

- Comprehensive assessment of current practice, policies and procedures, performance improvement and credentialing;
- Review of the environment, equipment and infection prevention measures;
- Development of an action plan to assure all elements of the guidelines are incorporated into practice;
- Accreditation application assistance;
- Education for staff and physicians on survey readiness;
- Mock surveys.

BESLER Consulting's breadth of experience and depth of knowledge with the Joint Commission accreditation has given us the ability to bring together both the technical and practical aspects of Office Based Surgery Accreditation. For the past 20 years, BESLER Consulting has been assisting healthcare clients through the complex accreditation arena. BESLER Consulting clients report that it is difficult to balance the vast amount of accreditation issues while maintaining operational efficiency. Utilizing the support of BESLER Consulting allows the client to efficiently incorporate accreditation requirements into daily operations and practice.
